Glover and Scafide Honored
At Annual Banquet For Letter Men—Visitors
Speak

Harry C. "Wop" Glover and John "Baby Grand" Scafide along with the lettermen of St. Stanislaus College were the honor guests of a banquet served Sunday night at the college, at which Ted Cox, Tulane coach, was one of the invited guests, with President Brother Peter as host. Brother Lambert, provincial, was also present. The tables were set for 75. The main speakers table was set with a centerpiece of carnations and other decorative effect, while the other tables with other cheerful effects had great blotches of possetia here and there.

There were several addresses delivered. Among those speaking were Bro. Peter, president S. S. C., as host; Leo W. Seal of the Hancock County Bank, who was introduced as one of the greatest of boosters; Hon. Robert L. Genin, city attorney; Rev. Father Leo P. Fahey of Bay St. Louis, and Chas. G. Moreau of St. Louis.

Other addresses from the two other main tables, that were separately set, with Scafide seated at one and Glover at the other, were by Harry "Wop" Glover, Johnny "Baby Grand" Scafide, Head Coach Grady Perkins of St. Stanislaus and Ted Cox from Tulane at New Orleans. Coach Perkins spoke feelingly to the young men receiving their letters, those who were spending their last year at St. Stanislaus and to those who prospectively would take their places.

Brother Peter, during the evening, took occasion to call attention to Schwartz, Glover and Scafide from St. Stanislaus as a triumvirate that should serve as an example to the students who would in time go to other colleges and universities.

Other guests at this banquet honoring the Tulane gridiron heroes and St. Stanislaus lettermen and other seniors were A. Scafide, H. C. Glover, Sr., Dr. C. L. Horton, Dr. A. P. Smith, Brother Adelord, vice-president of the college; Arthur A. Scafide, Emilio Cue, president of California gridiron contest, was not only thoughtful and fitting but provided a most auspicious affair. In detail and general enjoyment it was one of genuine pleasure, the spirit and continued interest of the evening all considered to make it memorable.

CONSTITUTION VISIT PUT OFF UNTIL MARCH 25, 1932

Mississippians Urged To Attend
Celebration at Gulfport Harbor

The most famous ship afloat, the 135-year-old U. S. Frigate Constitution, will dock in Gulfport harbor on March 25 instead of January 15 as previously announced. Elaborate plans to celebrate her arrival with patriotic ceremonies conducted by South Mississippi school children will be postponed until the later date.

In a message to the press Secretary Sam Fowles of the Gulfport chamber of commerce urges Mississippians to make plans to visit the historic ship while it is in their own state, rather than make trips to neighboring ports on which the earlier dates on which it will visit them. Special hotel and railroad rates are planned for the occasion of the ship's arrival at Gulfport.

One of six frigates ordered for the embargo navy of the young republic the Constitution was launched in Boston in 1797 when John Adams was president. Into her building had gone the best material and the best skill that the nation could produce. Georgia furnished the live oak for her keel; from Maine came the trees from which her great spars were hewed. Her masts towered 202 feet above the water line. Some of the timbers in her sides were eighty feet long and more than two feet thick. Paul Revere made the bolts and spikes of malleable copper in his foundry. Betsy Ross made her first flags and signals.

Bay St. Louis Club Not Represented at Coast League Meet

The first winter meeting of the Mississippi Coast Baseball League held this week in the Gulfport offices of the Daily Herald gives the 1932 season assurance of five clubs in the race and only one, Bay St. Louis, is unrepresented.

Franchise owners of Biloxi, Gulfport and Waveland were present but Ocean Springs and Pass Christian were not officially represented and it was decided to defer the election of officers until January 25. The secretary was authorized to notify Fred Fayard of Bay St. Louis that his franchise would automatically revert to the league within ten days rendering a report of the Bay St. Louis Club's affairs.

Leo A. Kenneth and Bob Dana, co-owners of the original Gulfport franchise, were present and stated that they would personally head the Gulfport Tarpons this summer. Dana, one of the oldtimers of Gulfport baseball, for the past two years has been out of town and Kenneth last summer turned his franchise over to H. G. Mellen.

Fred Klein, owner of the Biloxi Bakers, and "Tater" Hightower, manager were ready to make an early start in bringing together their 1931 championship team that last summer compiled an enviable record on the diamond in Coast League circles.

U. P. Usher, president of the Waveland club and Manager Haas and T. J. Bourgeois comprised the official delegation from the Hancock County community. Others present were Percy Wetzel, manager of the North Biloxi Stars, South Mississippi league champions; K. P. Kaiser, secretary of the Coast League; H. B. Nunn, Jr., one of the several managers of the 1931 Gulfport Tarpons under the President H. G. Mellen regime; Fred Klein, Jr., Biloxi and Bob O'Bryen of Gulfport.

While no official business for the 1932 season was transacted it was consensus of those present that the addition of North Biloxi and Gautier to the Coast League would be a working agreement in signing players and post season inter-league games with the junior loop should be reached early this spring. Those present were reminded that the election of 1932 officers, namely president and secretary, would be held on January 25.

BORIS KARLOFF SUCCEEDS CHANEY

Actor Who Plays the Monster in "Frankenstein" Registers Strongly.

Boris Karloff, who plays the murderous monster of Universal's picture "Frankenstein" at the A. & G. Theater, Thursday and Friday of next week, is more than six feet in height and weighs more than 200 pounds.

Nevertheless, Director James Whale thought him far too diminutive for the scientifically-manufactured criminal of the eerie thriller, and added exactly 48 pounds of make-up and additional body structure to him for the characterization.

Karloff's make-up guarded religiously by Universal employees, during the making of the film, led the public receive an inkling of the picture's odd mystery character, is said to be the most unusual and terrifying that the screen has ever seen. Theater patrons whose nerves were supposed to be jumpy were warned not to see it. So they are taking things in droves. They are convinced that Boris Karloff can take up the mantle of Lon Chaney. Colin Clive, Mae Clarke, John Boles, Dwight Frye, Edward Van Sloan and Frederick Kerr head the cast with Karloff.

FUNDAMENTAL FACTS.

WHILE we are not sure that the world would be helped by a general cancellation of war debts, there are certain fundamental facts in connection with them which should be recognized.

In the first place if the United States cancelled the debts of foreign governments due us, the debts are not really cancelled because the United States bonds which were issued to secure the money when it was loaned are still outstanding and will have to be paid.

The effect of debt cancellation is that these Federal bonds will be paid by the taxpayers of the United States rather than the taxpayers of the foreign governments who owe us the money. International bankers urge the cancellation of such debts as constructive measure, largely in order to make certain that private debts of these foreign countries handled by these bankers will be stronger and more probable of payment.

Another fact which should not be lost sight of is that these foreign governments which seek cancellation of debts continue to spend millions of dollars annually in preparation for war. If the United States relieves them of debt payments some assurance should be received that the money thus acquired will not be used to increase armaments and stimulate wars.

It takes what you call a good talker to sell stock in the present day.

What this country really needs is an excuse that will take the place of cash.

Real baseball fans can tell you, even now, where the big league teams will train.

Finishing work on time is one of the best ways in the world to enjoy your business.

While hoping for business to improve it might be a good idea for us to get to work for ourselves.

Correct this sentence: I know you are glad to let me have the money, and I really need it, but I have decided not to accept any loans in 1932.

Bay St. Louis might as well start now on the road to prosperity. There is no use waiting. We have all that we need to get along if we will tackle the task.

As near as we can make out, the wise boys claim that too much credit brought on the present era of depression, but what the country needs today in order to get prosperous again, is more credit.

If anybody thinks that our big cities know how to conduct their own affairs let him consider the revelations in New York and the condition of Chicago, where the schools face closing for lack of funds.

One of the amazing sidelights of the present economic situation is the way the big business leaders, who have been so strenuously opposed to governmental "interference" with business, have scrambled up to Congress with hats in their hands.

Picayune farmers have already planted 350 acres of strawberries, according to R. O. Lawhon, Agricultural Agent for the Southern Rwy. Co., and it is expected that an acreage of 500 will be reached during December, which will insure carlot shipments next spring. Six pump wells, each with a 250-gallon capacity are being put down on the L. O. Crosby strawberry acreage between Picayune and Nicholson.

In a neighboring community the railroad recently discontinued its passenger trains because of lack of patronage. The citizens of the community immediately set up a protest to have the train put back. Seems inconsistent. If the people were unwilling to use the train why should the railroad be asked to operate it at a loss?

A friend of ours who has been ill for several days, dropped into the office on the occasion of his first trip to town. Discussing his illness he told us that the only thing that broke the monotony of his lonesomeness occurred one day when his wife, who was writing a letter to her mother, called in from the next room and asked him if cemetery was spelled with an s or a c.

President Hoover's reconstruction bill, by which two billion dollars will be available to the banks of the country has passed the Senate and possibly before this will have been printed, passed by the House. This is the first genuine relief bill the administration has put forward and the fact that every indication points to its passage overwhelmingly, proves the measure is one that is timely and prove of immediate relief.

We refuse to follow the fellow who tries to prescribe for us how much sleep we should have. Sleep is an individual matter. Some can get along on four hours, some six, and others require eight and ten. One should take whatever sleep is necessary to rebuild his system for the next day's grind. The man out in the air doing physical labor will require more sleep than the person inside on the desk. The thing to do is to take the sleep one needs, regardless of the varying opinions of the authorities.

SCIENCE'S ADVANCE.

SCIENCE made some interesting progress on the solution of its problems during the year 1931.

Next to the last of the unknown elements, number 87, has been discovered. Only one remains unfound. In recent years the elimination of the unknown elements has been comparatively rapid.

Another scientist perfected a machine which he thinks may be able to unlock the energy of atoms. If this is accomplished the transformation of one element into another may be accomplished, it having been previously demonstrated that the various atoms differ progressively in the number of electrons.

The discoveries of astronomers continue to impress one with the accomplishment of the human mind. The presence of another planet, nearly six times the diameter of the earth, which takes 650 years to travel around the sun, has been demonstrated by the irregularities of the planet Uranus. The highest speed in the universe has been measured, 11,000 miles a second, the speed of a distant nebula rushing away from our earth.

More material findings were also recorded. Prospectors in airplanes report vast radium deposits in Northern Canada which may increase the supply of this present costly commodity. Whether a baby will be a boy or a girl may now be determined by X-Ray several months before birth. Another scientist says that long-range weather forecast based on cycles of solar radiation can now be successfully made.

These are only a few of the many scientific advances reported during the year of 1931. Without fuss the scientists are methodically proceeding to solve the mysteries of our age and unlock greater and vaster possibilities for man. Many doubt, however, whether man is being prepared mentally and spiritually to handle the power and resources which are being made available for him.

Never believe all that you hear about the people of your own town—somebody may be talking about you.

OLD SPANISH TRAIL.

CONSIDERABLE interest was manifested this week in the visit of State Highway Commissioner W. J. Thames, of this district, following the interview he gave the press. Concerning Road 90 between this point and the State line, he said much of the so-called permanent pavement that had been put down was unpaid. That pay was withheld for the work had not proven its worth. In fact, he said, it has proven an experiment and not until hardsurfacing had been properly and permanently built would payment be forthcoming.

It is planned, he said, to hardsurface the entire route from the point where finished on and to Bay St. Louis. This he said would be accomplished within the next few months, including the three-mile stretch that has been "raised" and rebuilt. The time when the highway, as planned, will be finished is short. Bad weather, he explained has delayed operations and proven a detriment more seriously than the lay mind might think.

Commissioner Thames is very enthusiastic and is looking forward to the earliest moment when Coast residents may go in and out of New Orleans to and from the coastal line. He has proven himself a friend of this section and is speeding up the work. The weather, he said, would be an important factor in the accomplishment of this piece of roadbuilding and its ultimate completion.

Latest dope is that we will have a mild winter—we hope no cold wave breaks all records before we print this.

FACTS ABOUT RETAIL TRADE.

RETAIL merchants in Bay St. Louis may be interested in learning some of the facts about retail trading as found by an analysis of such trade in Tulsa by the Chamber of Commerce of that city, as summarized by the Department of Commerce.

Answering the question, "why do people trade in certain cities?" the reasons given by various shoppers and the percentage for each follow: Transportation conveniences 33.8 per cent, greater variety by merchandise 22.0, goods not carried by local merchants 14.1, relatives and friends 11.3, theatres and other attractions 9.6, better prices 6.8, and higher quality 2.2.

To ascertain what out-of-town shoppers bought, another question was asked and the purchase were found to be in the following lines of merchandise with the percentage given: Women's ready-to-wear 32.5 per cent, dry goods 20.1, men's suits 11.0, shoes 9.8, men's haberdashery 5.8, furniture 5.1, auto accessories 3.8, children's clothes 3.4, radios 2.9, autos 1.6, electrical appliances 1.3, jewelry, 0.3, and other musical instruments 0.2.

Study of the above figures should indicate along what lines our local merchants should seek to encourage additional trade?

PAINT AND CLEAN-UP.

PAINT and clean-up campaigns it is hoped will be inaugurated as early as possible. There are too many dwellings and other buildings, it has been pointed out, in need of the touch of the brush, and too many front and back yards in need of the rake and broom.

It is proven that paint, comparatively speaking, is inexpensive. Paint not only preserves the surface but enhances and contributes to realty value. Well-kept property is an all-year-round asset. No one is interested in a neglected house and visitors and others to Bay-Waveland are never attracted or interested in the building that shows the impress of the corroding influences of time. Many a place fails to sell, or to rent, for lack of attention.

A paint-up campaign would not be amiss, and The Echo is of the opinion that this early spring will see more such attention than ever. The effort is worth the price. The cost is more than justifiable. It pays big dividends.

VIEWS OF OUR NEWS
By Chicagoan

A Review of the News of Last Week's Echo.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Vacation's over! With the rest of the world, this scribbler, driver, or whatever you may term me, must face the realities of 1932. And with the rest of the world, I entertain the hope for a year that will do better by the children of the earth than did its predecessor.

As the memories of a most pleasant week begin to dim, I take a look at the Echo for the first time in 1932. The paper is no different in format or content than it was back in the dark days of 1931, but methinks I note in each of its columns a gleam of hope following a sigh of relief which accompanied the passing of the old year.

'Course, there's no getting around the fact that when the male contingent of the Echo's great army of readers noted the new date-line, there were those among the unmarried members who detected quite a difference and they keenly realized that this is Leap Year. Some of those single chaps have probably been looking forward to 1932 hoping that certain young ladies might decide to exercise their Leap Year prerogatives. But then on the other hand, it's just about as certain that there are a few old fellows in the group who long have viewed leap years with disfavor, if not with genuine alarm. You understand, they are of the chivalrous type who never refuse a lady's request yet they hesitate to assent to an arrangement which to the officers no advantage other than the increase in their income tax exemptions.

The seasons move in cycles, and with them move the diversions as well as the labors of men. As the Rose Bowl football game, in which Glendon Scott, of Bay St. Louis' cherished sons distinguished themselves, marked the beginning of winter... even in California, so the basketball game in S. J. A. gym on Friday night was a step toward spring. Soon will come the tournaments, the championships, and the season will be over. Already we hear of Babe Ruth going into training and many stories regarding the salaries to be paid him and other stars. This reminds us that while we have a short time when thousands of active young men will be cavorting on the diamonds of the country for the amusement of themselves and the public. All that is well, and let's hope that no matter what happens in 1932, our people will not become so depressed in spirit that they will forget to take recreation, or to find enjoyment in the antics of others as they indulge in wholesome play.

By the way, it looks as though something happened to the New Year resolutions made by Arnold, Doyle and Hoyle, the gas-filing trio from Maryland and to those of young Mrs. Morris too. Or maybe they all just forgot to make any. In any event, the mention of them made in last week's Echo would seem to indicate that they put their wrong feet forward on the New Year's day. However, by the time January 1, 1933 rolls around, they'll probably resolve to "resolute" and then see to it that from then on their jaths in life be not quite so stony.

Say what you will of business conditions, I know one thing: Bay St. Louis seems to believe 1932 will see a turn in the road. They are confident that they must be up and doing, however, as their splendid advertisements in last week's Echo prove. The more firms there are testifying to their faith in the future of Bay St. Louis and to the stability of its people through their continuous advertising in their home publication, the sooner Old Man Depression will experience that sinking feeling at the pit of his stomach which will warn him that his knockout is but a matter of a few short rounds.

The "let us be gay" season is over for Miss Frances Virginia Elliott and countless other college students. The holiday round of pleasure is a thing of the past. They are back, those intelligent young men and women, delving into the wondrous stores of knowledge accumulated by others who have studied before their time. Next New Year's season will see many of this year's earnest students out in the midst of a world of affairs. 'Tis then they will prove how much they made of the opportunities of this college year. 'Tis then they will show us that in addition to absorbing the knowledge of others they have learned to do a little thinking for themselves.

Now, I hope those of my readers who are returning to work after a short holiday respite from their duties are not experiencing the difficulty of getting into the harness that I am. Frankly, it seems I've been away from my desk much longer than one week. But I hope those who have read this far will be kind enough to strangle that rising wish that I had remained away even longer.

CORRESPONDENT
RETURNS TO ECHO

By JOHN T. MEYERS
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

Greetings Sea Coast Echo readers. Mighty happy to be back in your home town paper again after a long absence. No, I haven't been over in China covering the war-like activities now being enacted in that part of the globe. Instead, your Texas correspondent has been on the wounded list here in San Antonio due to cranking a stubborn automobile one cold, frosty morning.

And did that "gas buggy" kick! Even after the dust had cleared and ye scribbler decided that he was not cranking over one corner of the globe, he was still expecting to hear a lusty, shouting "Hi! Ha!" expelled from within the motor department of that kicking jinx. Or to see the thing sail across the lawn to graze in one mule-like defiance. . . . But it didn't.

You see, a lot of motor cars are used to certain drivers. . . . just like mules. This one in particular belonged to a friend, who steadfastly denies that the tank was filled with liquid dynamite instead of gasoline. But it will be a long time before I can be convinced. It's just like trying to convince a fellow that Maud or Jimmy was just playing when she planted those shoe prints on his pants. . . . It can't be done.

But it's all over now, and we are back at the old typewriter again. Editor Moreau stated that many of you were asking for me and the "Guns I ship." For this kind interest I say, "Thank you."

Last week's issue of the Echo informed that Chicagoan is Cuba bound. With your patron, may we use the chapter's slang and say, "Bet. Mr. Chicagoan gets a great kick out of his long delayed vacation." Certainly his many readers are waiting for his interesting writer, who reads between the lines and dives into the very hearts and minds of personalities revealed to him through printed columns of the Echo, a most enjoyable vacation. And that he will return to his strenuous newspaper duties up your in Chicago in the best of health and spirits.

Personally, I hope and trust that my friend Chicagoan left that "Gloomy Co." person in Chicago. Surely Cuba won't be no place for Gus. I don't believe Mr. Volstead has gotten around to Cuba as yet, in fact it is doubtful if he is even "embarked" in many parts of these United States.

MISSISSIPPI HAS NAME'S
HISTORY TOLD

"Mississippi" is one of the most distinctive names in the American vocabulary, according to the December issue of the Illinois Central Magazine. Once seen or heard it is never forgotten. The ability to spell or pronounce it correctly marks a milestone of achievement in the life of every American child.

The name is an anglicized form of the Algonquin "Miche Sebe," meaning "Great River." Chevalier Tonti called it "Miche Sepe." Pere Laval condensed it into one word, "Michisepce." Others called it "Miche Sebe." Father Hennepin recorded it as "Mehachisippi," and Father Marquette came close to the present spelling with "Mississipi."

The State of Mississippi was first explored by DeSoto in 1541, and the first permanent settlement was established at Biloxi by Iberville and Bienville in 1699. Mississippi was admitted to statehood in 1817.—Mississippi Highways.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest."

"I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted."

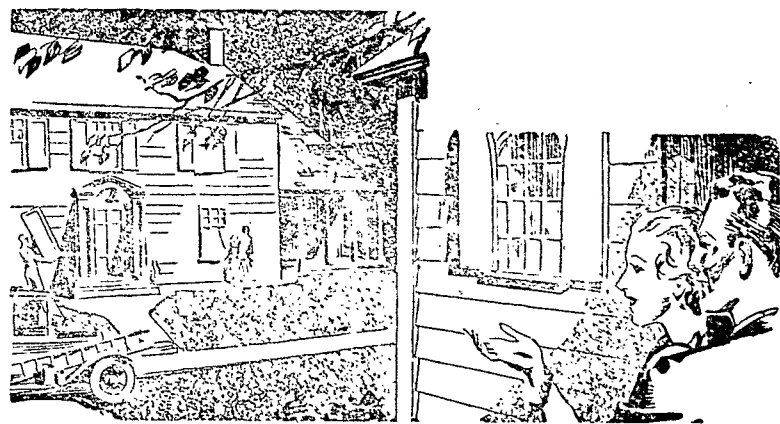

"Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."

THE RAILROAD SITUATION
AS PRESIDENT HOOVER VIEWS IT
IN HIS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

This very clear statement by President Hoover of the problems which confront the management of American Railroads so closely parallels the statements by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and other great trunk line systems that it is here reproduced for public consideration. This statement made to Congress by President Hoover deserves the careful consideration, not only of Congress, but of every American citizen.

Railways

"The railways present one of our immediate and pressing problems. They are and must remain the backbone of our transportation system. Their prosperity is interrelated with the prosperity of all industries. Their fundamental service in transportation, the volume of their employment, their buying power for supplies from other industries, the enormous investment in their securities, particularly their bonds, by insurance companies, savings banks, benevolent and other trusts, all reflect their partnership in the whole economic fabric. Through these institutions the railway bonds are in a large sense the investment of every family. The well-maintained and successful operation and the stability of railway finances are of primary importance to economic recovery. They should have more effective opportunity to reduce operating costs."

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

It Is A Good Time
To Protect Your Interest
In Railroads

A railroad executive presents this thumbnail sketch of the railroad industry:

The Class I lines have an investment of $26,350,000,000. They operate 429,200 miles of track and pay taxes amounting to $348,000,000 a year. They spend about $1,038,000,000 a year for equipment and supplies.

They employ 1,500,000 men and women with a total wage of $2,550,000,000. There are a million holders of railroad bonds and 800,000 stockholders. More than $3,000,000,000 of railroad securities are held by life insurance companies and mutual savings banks. These insurance companies have 50,000,000 policy holders and there are nearly 13,000,000 depositors in mutual savings banks.

The railroad industry is exceeded in size only by agriculture. Practically every living American has an interest of some kind in the rails. The steel worker, the store keeper, the banker, the insurance man, the day laborer—all classes and all kinds are involved. To some degree, their individual prosperity, or lack of it, is bound up with railroad prosperity.

Yes, whether you work for wages or clip coupons, you are a partner of the railroads.

PAVING AWAITS ON THE SALE OF HIGHWAY BONDS

Make Progress on Highway 49; to Finish No. 90 by Summer.

"The work of paving Highway No. 49 will begin as soon as funds are available by the last session of the legislature," declared Highway Commissioner J. F. Thames.

The links now practically ready for surfacing on Highway 49 are about 11 miles between Jackson and Star; six miles from the Rankin county line to D'Lo; eight miles in Covington county from Mt. Olive to Collins; seven miles in Forrest county from Brooklyn to Stone county line to Wiggins.

Work on Highway No. 90 from Bay St. Louis west has been delayed by bad weather, although the raising of about six miles of road bed is two-thirds completed.

Your Privilege....

IF YOU are a stockholder of Mississippi Power Company you are part owner of the Company and a partner in the business of supplying electric service to half of the State of Mississippi. It is a privilege and an obligation of which you should be proud.

You are bringing abundant, dependable hydro-electric power into a State which has no potential water-power of its own.

The territory you serve covers the eastern half of the State from Tennessee to the Gulf.

One hundred and seventy-six Mississippi communities are dependent on you for light and power.

You own and operate fourteen hundred miles of high voltage transmission lines which connect these towns and villages into an electrical network.

The development of your community into what it is today was inseparably linked with the growth and prosperity of the public utilities which served it, just as today they are dependent on each other for what the future may bring.

B. E. EATON,
President

Over forty-one thousand customers expect you to maintain uninterrupted service twenty-four hours each day.

Seven hundred loyal men and women, your employees, are helping you do the job.

You have four thousand Mississippians as your partners in the most modern business in the world.

We invite you who are not stockholders to join this family of State builders by investing in the Preferred Stock of this Company.
